

With our training,
every participant improves.

At Point Taken, we address unique business problems that require new levels of communication skill. We build expertise through workshops, individual coaching, and customized training. Our workshops are always fun, interactive, and tailored to your specific challenges.

Our coaches understand the complexities of organizing training, and customize every workshop to meet your needs and fit your agenda.

Whatever the challenge, we're experts at helping you communicate the great ideas in your head in a way that's relatable and leads to action.

CAPABILITIES

The Point Taken Training Approach

Interaction creates engagement and fosters learning. That's why we get participants on their feet to practice in every workshop. Practice in front of others helps tackle nervousness, ensures improvement and makes the session a lot more fun. Happy, engaged participants learn more.

It may sound like all fun and games at Point Taken, however, our coaches are serious about making each training session specific to your needs. In fact, we use your content whenever possible to give a 'real world' feel to the exercises. With backgrounds in healthcare, business, telecommunications, higher education, law and the fine arts, we not only speak well, we speak your language.

We can incorporate the latest technology to record participants and provide quantifiable, customized feedback to help them see their progress and develop goals to turn them into poised and polished presenters.

If you or your team have a communication challenge, call us. Let's work on it together.
